

Deacon Bill Demidovich

Deacon Demidovich, his wife Lauri, and their daughter, are parishioners at St. Michael in Worthington where he is now assigned. His internship parish was St. Brigid of Kildare in Dublin.

“The experiences at St. Michael and St. Brigid along with weekly visits taking Holy Communion to nursing home residents assisted greatly in confirming a call to serve others through the diaconate. The visits have had a tremendous impact on me spiritually. I have also grown through Morning and Evening Prayer and reception of the Sacraments,” said Deacon Demidovich.

“My wife Lauri has been a huge influence as she knows me best and has guided, counseled, and encouraged me. My daughter and I have helped each other in this process, as she was in high school while I was studying in the diaconate program. This was a very special time of our lives and we often would study simultaneously; this was motivating and helpful to each of us,” said Deacon Demidovich.

“While there were challenging and busy times over the last several years, I would not trade them as the time has been very fulfilling,” said Deacon Demidovich. “The balancing of family, work, and the diaconate was always emphasized in that order and with good communication, flexibility and patience; each area can be maintained and fostered to new growth with the grace of God working in us.”
